The arrows in the picture show the “previous” links. Each time a neighbor is added to the working set, it is given the square that added it as its “previous” square. The arrows point from each square to its previous. Notice how we can follow the path from the goal to the entrance. The reversal of this path is the solution to the maze.